

Shake, Rattle 'n' Roll: Laurel in the 1950s

Visitor Response Form

We want to hear from YOU!

Tell us your story of living in the 1950s either in Laurel or somewhere else!

If you weren't alive in the 1950s, tell us your impressions from your parents, grandparents, television, movies, books, and other forms!

Name: Charlie Hessler

Date: 6/09/2009

Tell us your story...

One of the most memorable events of the 1950s was the introduction of the ball point pen. I was in 4th grade and vividly remember when the school first provided them. They were the kind of pen that was prone to leave globs of congealed ink every once in a while, but they were much better than having to dip a pen into an ink well, which every school desk had.

The Laurel Historical Society reserves the right to reproduce this story on our website, in our brochures, and elsewhere.

If you'd like to take the form and mail it back you can do so to 817 Main Street, Laurel, MD or info@laurelhistoricalsociety.org